REF: Changes to your gluten free food prescription

Dear Sir / Madam

NHS Wirral Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG), previously known as the Primary Care Trust, is the organisation responsible for planning, monitoring and commissioning the majority of local health services for the Wirral population.

As you will be aware from the media, and perhaps from your own experiences, our local health economy is facing significant challenges in dealing with increasing demand across all aspects of healthcare service delivery, including prescription medications.

These demands have financial implications, requiring us to look collectively across the system at how we make most efficient use of resources in ways which do not impact patient care.

One of the areas identified by Wirral CCG is the prescription of gluten free products.

These products – which include flour, bread, pasta, biscuits and pizza base mix – were originally added as products available on prescription at a time when they were not readily available for purchase in local supermarkets

In recent years the variety and accessibility of gluten free products has improved considerably with many products now available at prices which are significantly lower than the prescription cost to the NHS.

Wirral Clinical Commissioning Group

In order to address this issue, during the summer of 2016, we undertook a formal consultation process seeking views from the Wirral public regarding the prescription of gluten free products.

The result of this consultation was discussed and debated (in public) at the Wirral CCG Governing Body of 4th October 2016.

The decision reached at that Governing Body meeting was to further restrict the number of units (see table below) and also the range of gluten free products available on prescription, as a result, only the following foods can be prescribed: bread loaves (does not include any form of bread roll, e.g. hot dog roll, hamburger roll), bread mix, flour, flour mix, crackers and pasta.
